Olympic Silver Medalist Greg Foster Visits with GMC Student-Athletes

In an effort to engage our student-athletes in a different way, the Georgia Military College Intercollegiate Athletics Department developed the Athletic Speaker Series, partnering with Total Courage, as a part of character development efforts with athletes at GMC. This past Tuesday, April 17th, Greg Foster, a Silver Medalist in the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics in the 110m hurdles, spoke to GMC student athletes.

“I felt an important piece our athletes needed was the opportunity to learn from some highly successful former athletes from a variety of backgrounds who had overcome their own challenges, and could provide some insight to our athletes to help them with their total educational process,” GMC Athletic Director, Bert Williams, said. “With the support of Total Courage, our Athletic Speaker Series was born, and we have been blessed to have some phenomenal men and women meet and share their experiences with our young athletes. This has been a tremendously worthwhile effort, and one that we will continue to grow and offer moving forward.”

Foster is now an Entrepreneur, CEO of GBM Sports and The Art of Running and Hurdling, and he’s the Founder and Executive Director of Partners for Educational Progress. In addition to winning Silver at the Olympics, Foster is also a World Record Holder, American Record Holder, 4x IAAF World Champion, he’s a member of the U.S.A. Track and Field Hall of Fame, and a Youth Track Coach and Mentor. He currently resides in St. Louis, Missouri, and is a father of three sons.

We are thankful to have had Greg Foster visit GMC to inspire and motivate our student athletes!

Jane Simpson, Special Collections Librarian, Retires From Georgia Military College

Jane Simpson's last day in this role was April 2, 2018, rounding out her 36-year career at Georgia Military College.

36 years ago, a budding Jane Simpson walked through the doors of Georgia Military College to work as the Night Librarian. She worked during study hall as a Reference Librarian on the night shift, working with primarily the Junior College students, before adding Cataloger to her resume. Simpson's position changed again when she was named the Prep School Librarian, and got to work with the younger crowd. Working closely with students is something Simpson says she enjoyed most during her time here. She made lifelong Jane, we will miss you dearly. Thank you for dedicating so much of your life to GMC. We know this won't be the last we see of you!

friendships with students that she's still in touch with today.

After her time as Prep School Librarian, Simpson then took a break to pursue a Master's degree at the University of North Carolina in Library and Information Sciences. As soon as she was finished with her degree, she returned as Library Director. Then in 2009 Simpson decided it was time to retire from Georgia Military College. But again, she couldn't stay away and was asked to come back, this time in a role much different than any she'd previously had. She came out of retirement three months after leaving to be the Special Collections Librarian.

Endowed and Annual Scholarship Donors Tour GMC Prep School

Last week, an elite group of donors who have established an Endowed or Annual scholarship for our students joined us for a quick glimpse into daily life at the Prep School. Their time on campus began with a tour of our art studio where they heard from students about the joy that our first-year visual arts program has brought into their lives and also viewed some of the current projects that students are working on in art class. Next, three of our students shared their personal “GMC Story” and how the opportunities afforded to them here have made a difference in their lives. The final stop on the tour was the Goldstein Center where everyone was treated to a “sneak peek” of the upcoming Spring Musical, Footloose.

One of our students said it best – “I know I speak for the entire student body when I express my genuine appreciation for the opportunities GMC provides. I also would like to thank each of you for your generous contributions to the school which help create even more opportunities, and I promise that your donations will not go to waste, but rather influence hundreds of remarkable students for good. Again, thank you, and Go Dogs!”
